The pillars of our strategy

The pillars of our strategy

Full control of the manufacturing

We manufacture more than 95% of the components in our factories, extinguishing powder included

We manufacture our extinguishing powder

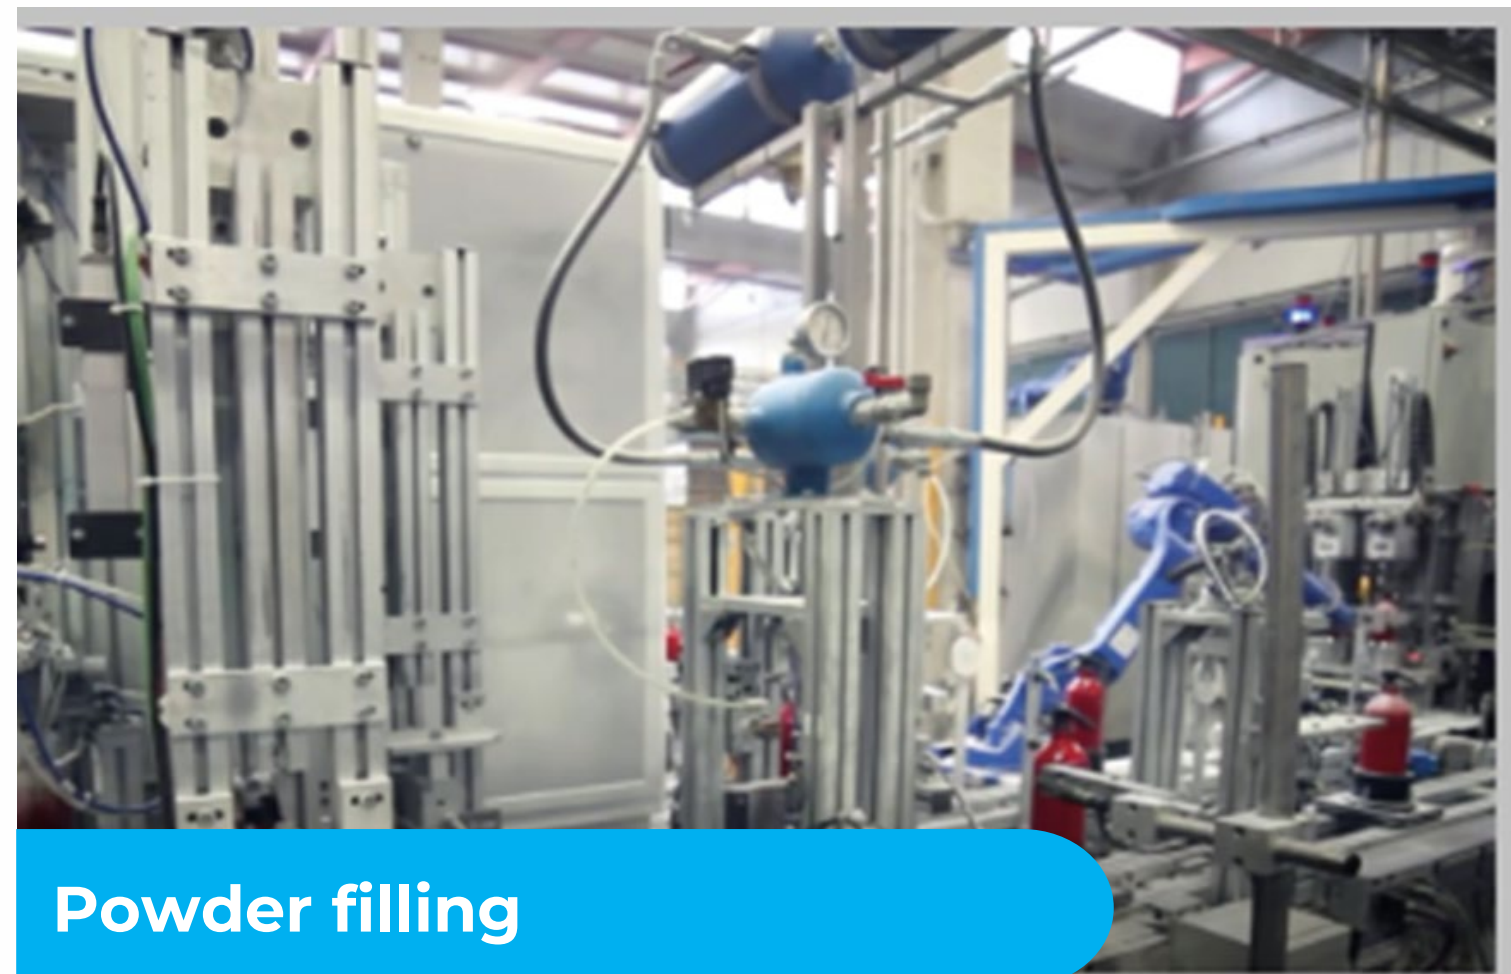

Powder production

- Our internal plant has a production capacity of 4.7 ton per hour
- Granulometry constantly laser controlled
- The powder filling line is directly connected to the plant: the extinguishing agent doesn't get in contact with humidity

We can produce any kind of powder and foam

The pillars of our strategy

Internal innovation

Our products and services are created, developed and manufactured in our Anaf factories and with external reliable and audited partners. We always make sure our products match the same high-quality standards, stricter than the regulation

50 years in the designing of firefighting products

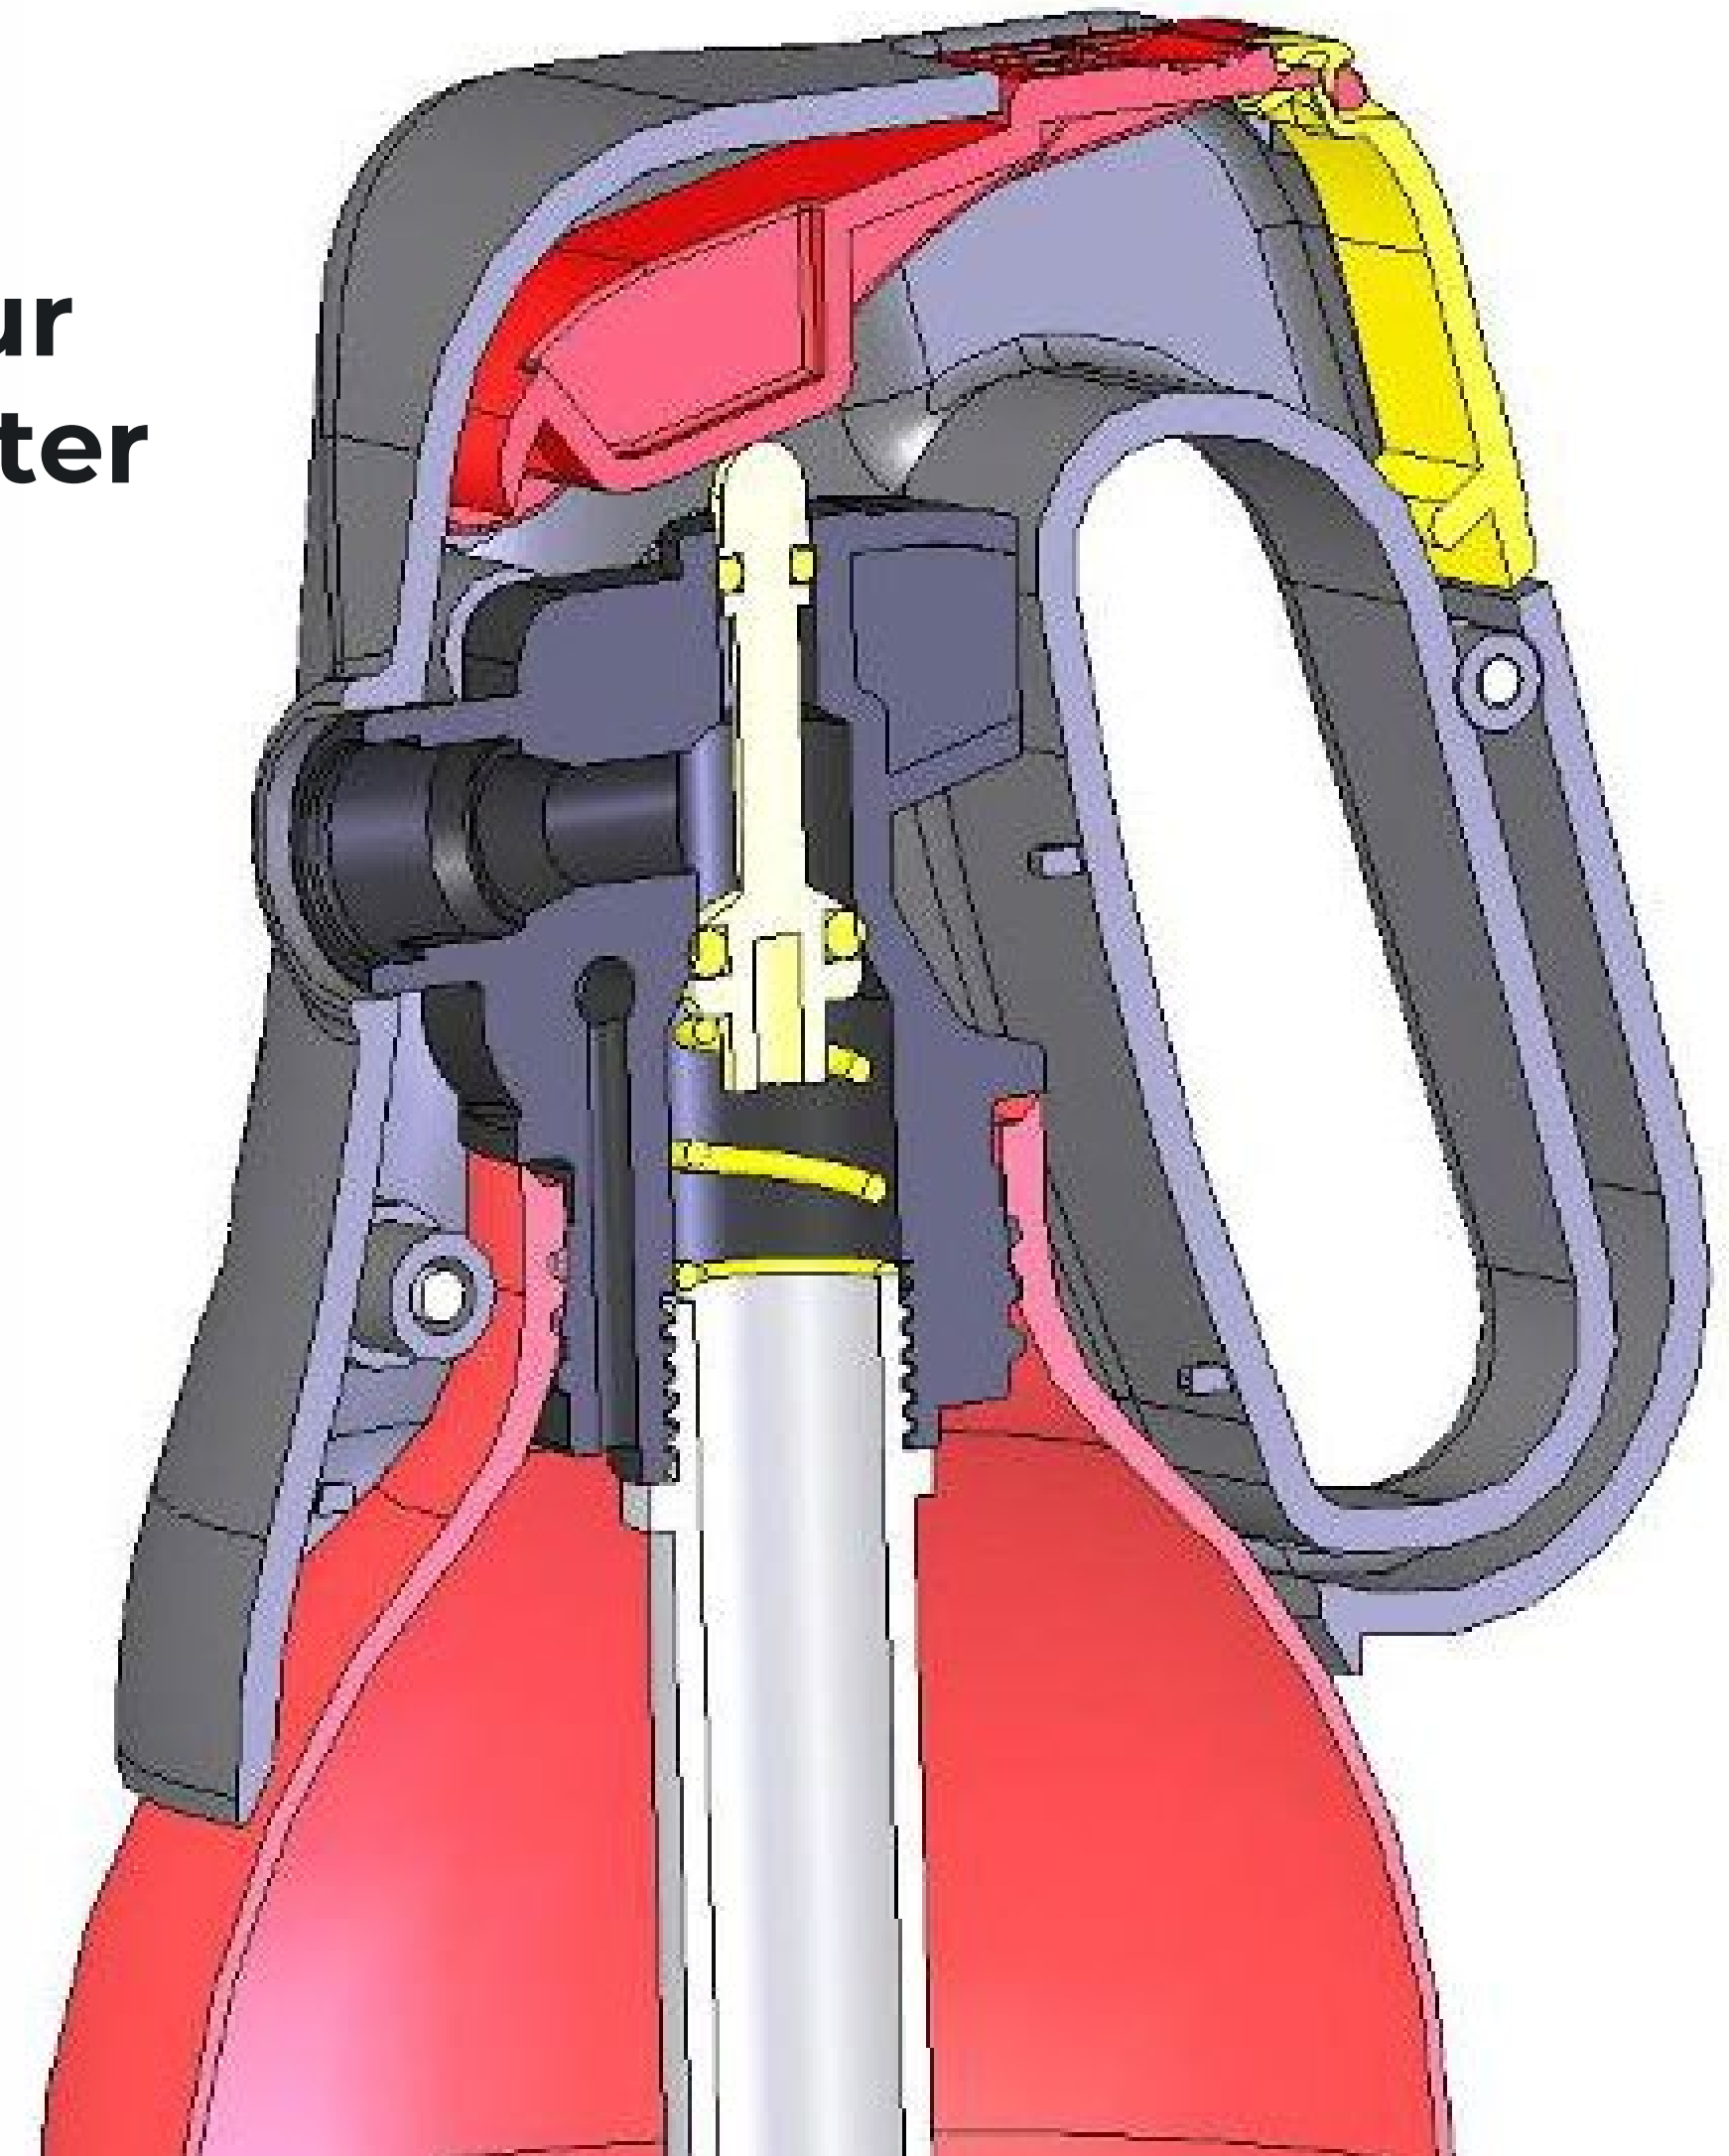

Since 1978, Yves Anaf sits at the technical committees for the fire extinguishers regulation in Italy (UNI) and in Europe (CEN)

Experience in several industries:

- Automotive
- Marine
- Aircraft

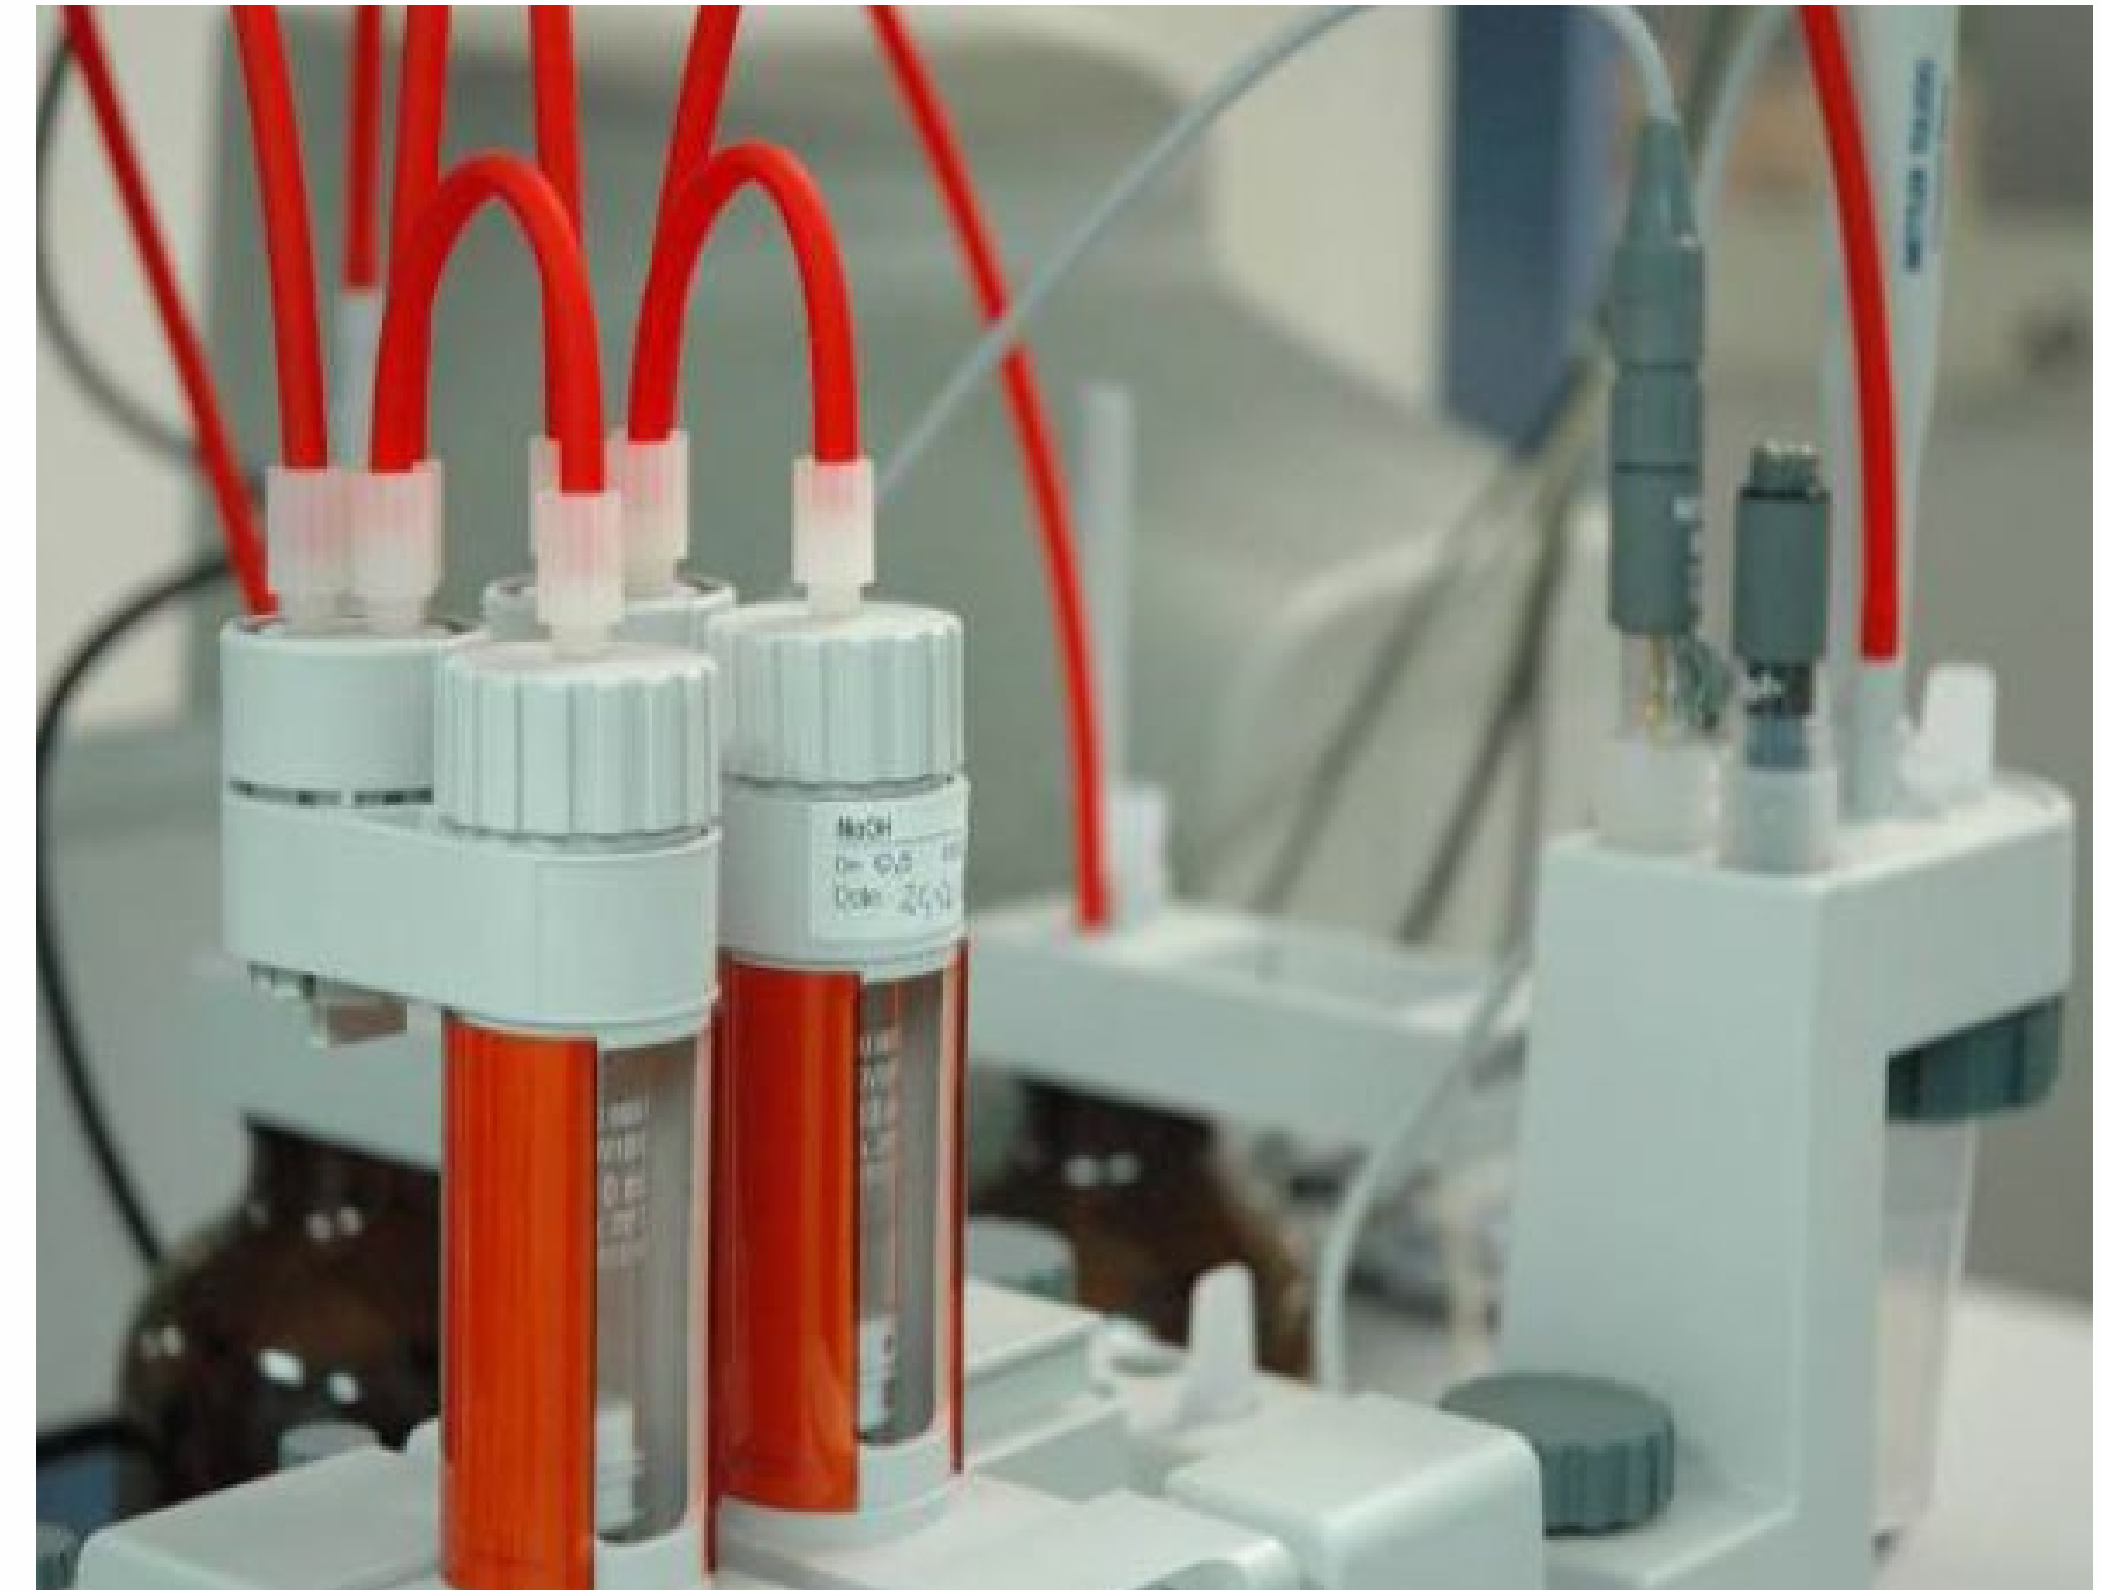

R&D and Testing

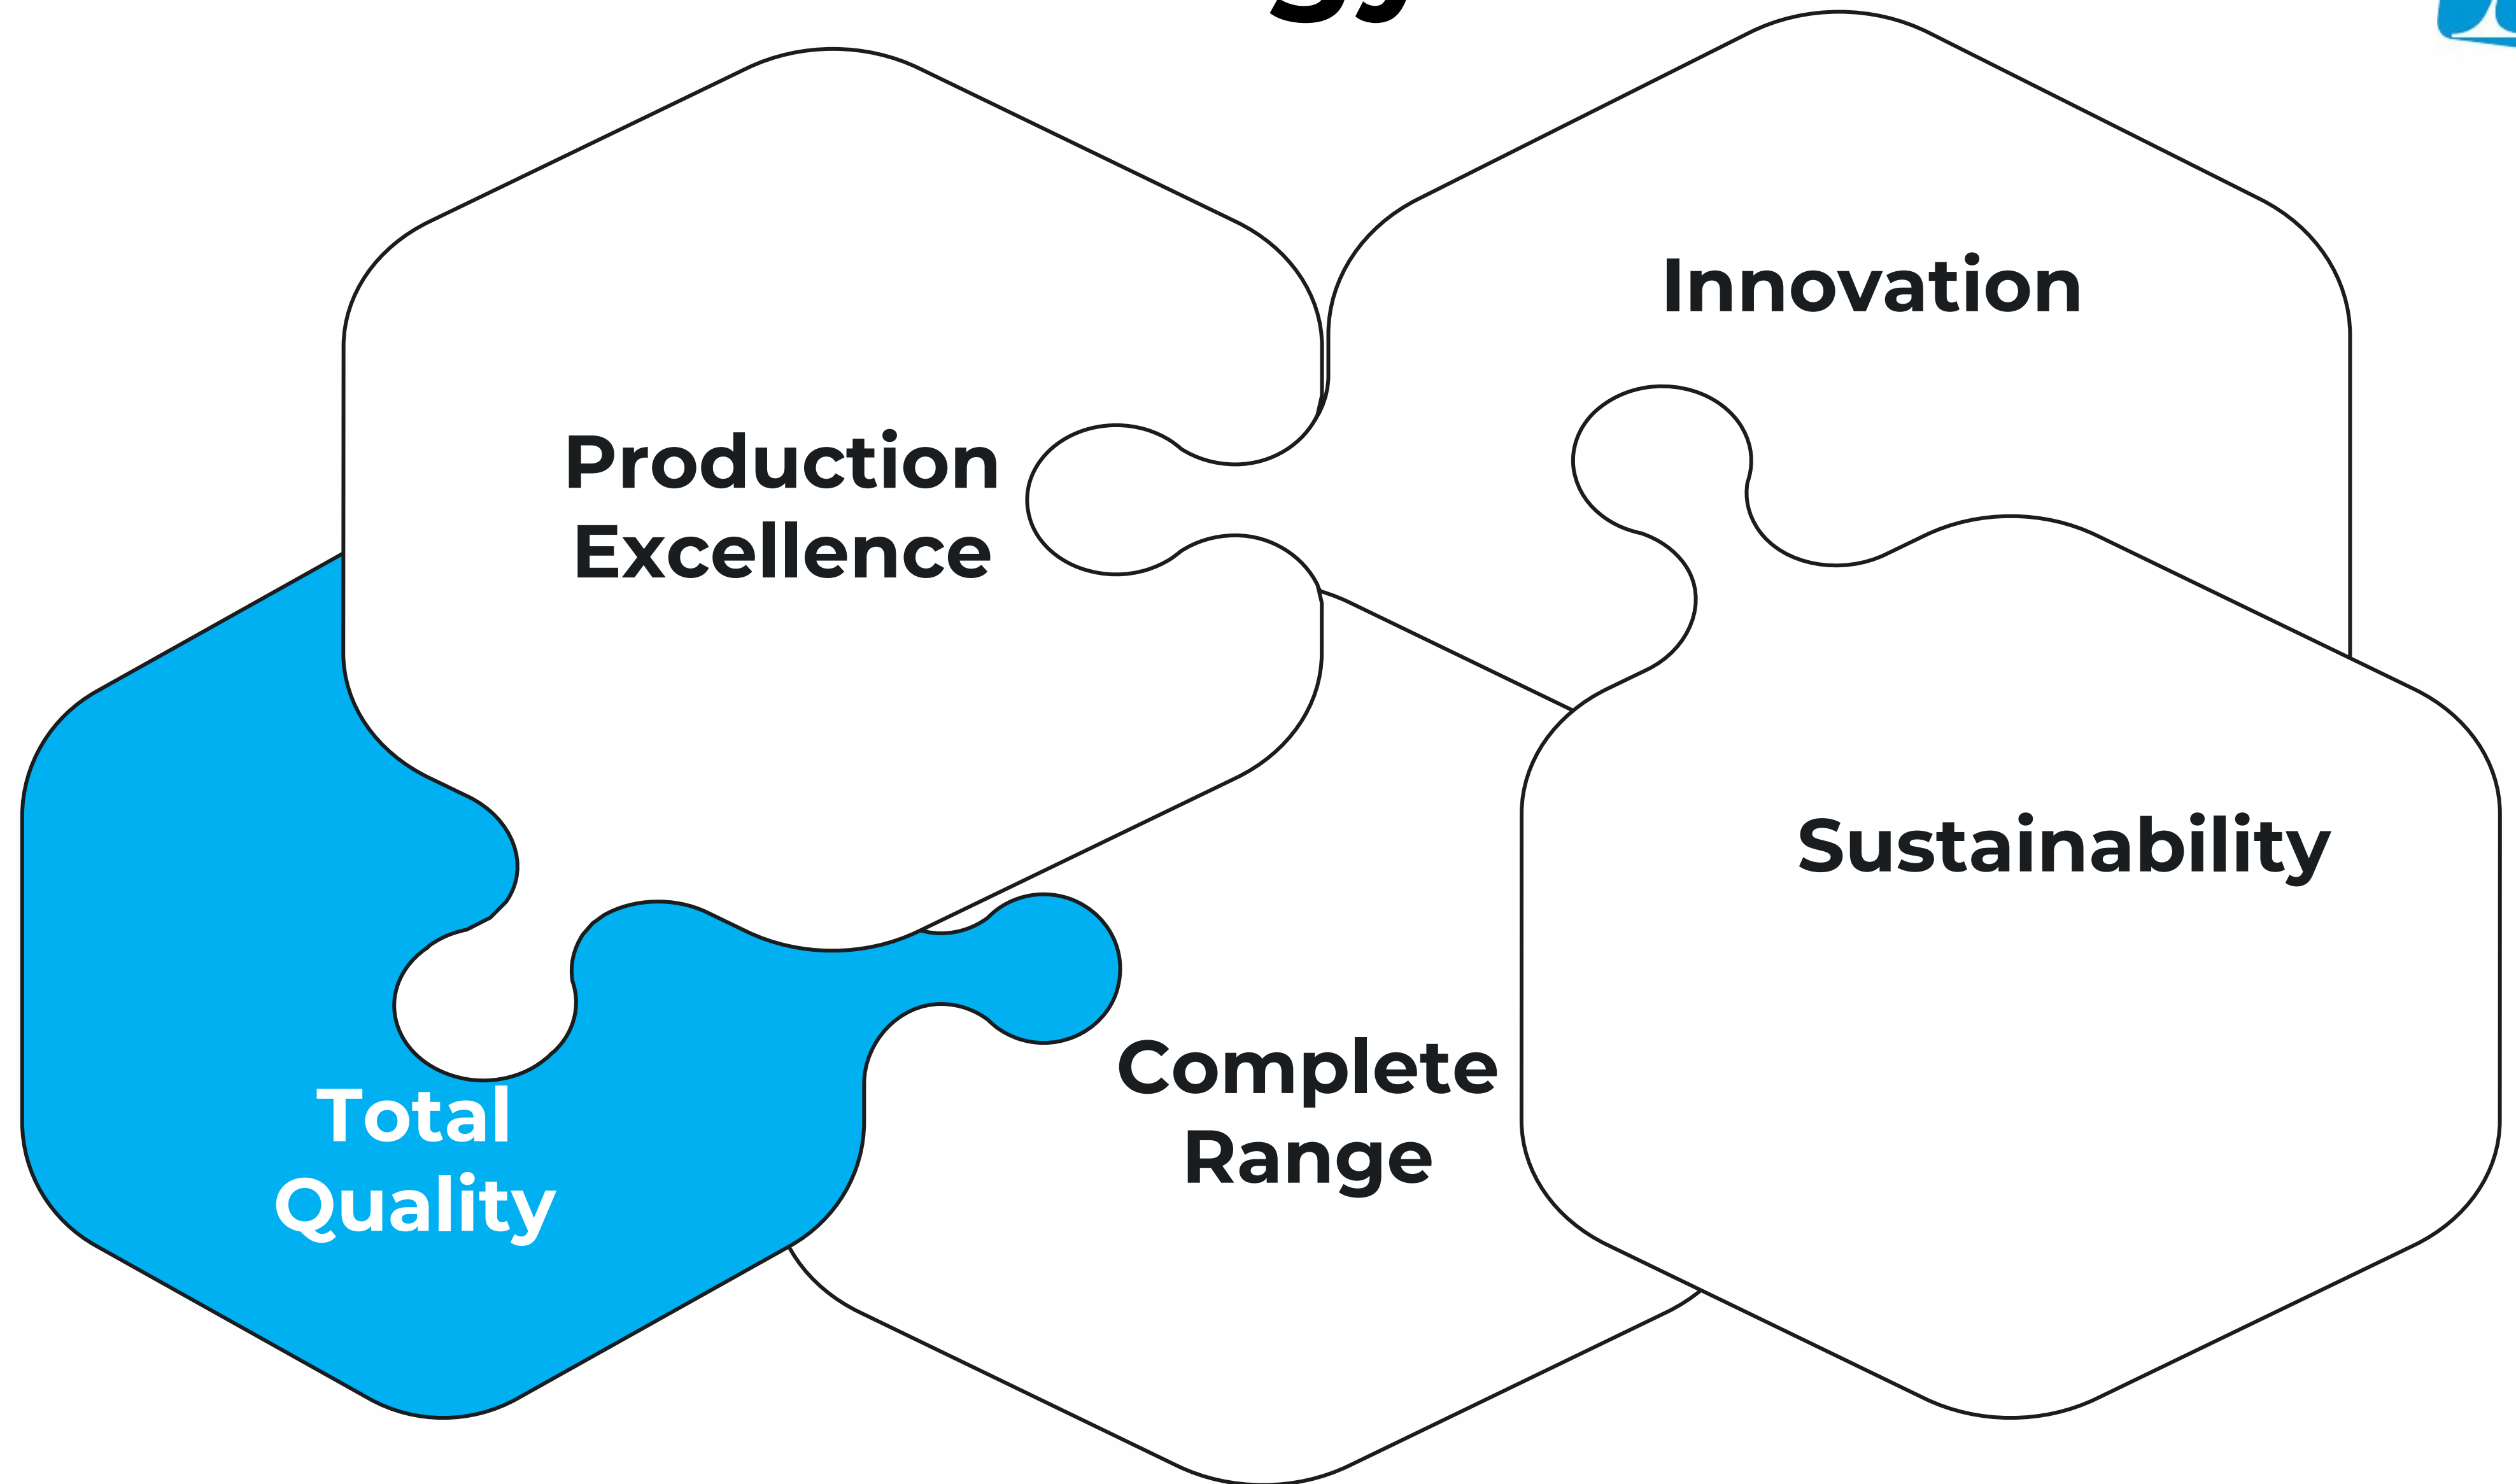

We have an internal laboratory for testing; our standards are comparable to the ones of the certifying labs.

We check each fire extinguisher at least 50 times, from its origin until it is ready for delivery

The pillars of our strategy

Certified Quality

For us, quality is much more than a word: it is deeply embedded in our DNA. Since we aim at Top Quality in everything we do, we established a rigorous Quality Management System, covering all aspects of the group.

Sustainability

Corporate social responsibility is not an abstract concept for us, but consists in daily concrete practices, designed to balance economic decisions against an assessment of their social and environmental impact in relation to the expectations of all Group stakeholders
